Informed consent for: “The ethos and effects of data-sharing rules: Examining the history of the ‘Bermuda principles’ and their effects on 21st century science”

University of Adelaide

Duke University

Researchers at the University of Adelaide, Australia, and the IGSP Center for Genome Ethics, Law & Policy, Duke University, are engaged in research on the Bermuda Principles for sharing DNA sequence data from high-volume sequencing centers. You have been selected for an interview because we believe that the recollections you may have of your experiences with the International Strategy Meetings for Human Genome Sequencing (1996-1998) will be interesting and helpful for our project.

We expect that interviews will last from 30 minutes to much longer, but you may stop your interview at any time. Your participation is strictly voluntary, and you do not have to answer every question asked.

Your interview is being recorded and we may take written notes during the interview. After your interview, we may prepare a typed transcript of the interview. If we prepare a transcript, you will have an opportunity to review it and to make deletions and corrections.

Unless you indicate otherwise, the information that you provide in this interview will be “on the record”—that is, it can be attributed to you in the various articles and chapters that we plan to write, and thus could become public through these channels. If, however, at some point in the interview you want to provide us with information that might be useful for us to know, but which you do not want to have attributed to you, you should tell us that you wish to go “off the record” and we will stop the recording. We will, however, take notes for our own use. When you are ready to go back “on the record,” we will resume recording. Anything you say while “off the record” will not be on the audio recording and therefore will not appear in the transcript.

All materials from your interview (audio recording; transcript; interviewer's notes) will be available only to members of the research team affiliated with this project, unless you consent to their wider use, as described in the paragraph below. The digital materials will be maintained in a secure, HIPPA-compliant drive at Duke University. The paper materials will be stored in a locked cabinet.

In addition to the scholarly articles and chapters that we plan to write, we also hope to create a resource for other scholars and members of the public. We plan to post some of our research data to online digital archives. While we will use your “on the record” comments to inform and write our articles, we will not post your interview transcript or audio recording online unless you give us permission to do so, in a separate agreement. At the time we send your transcript to you for review, we will also provide a consent form asking your permission to post your interview transcript and/or audio recording online. The form will provide you with different options for how, when, and with whom the materials may be shared. You will, of course, also have the option not to share the materials beyond the Duke and Adelaide researchers.

One risk of this study is that you may voluntarily disclose identifiable information that later could be requested for legal proceedings, or otherwise be used against you. Please take this into consideration when you are speaking. There may be other risks associated with your “on the record” views being made publicly available, such as having your views mischaracterized or misunderstood.

The main benefit of participating in this study is ensuring that your side of the story is properly portrayed in this history of the Bermuda Principles, which have become a model for open and collaborative research in genomics and other fields.

To help us protect the privacy of those parts of your interview that are not public, we have obtained a Certificate of Confidentiality from the U.S. National Institutes of Health. With this Certificate, we investigators cannot be forced to disclose information that may identify you, even by a court subpoena, in any U.S. federal, state, or local civil, criminal, administrative, legislative, or other proceedings. We researchers can use the Certificate to resist any demands for information that would identify you.

The Certificate cannot be used, however, to resist a demand for information from personnel of the United States Government that is used for auditing or evaluation of federally funded projects or for information that must be disclosed in order to meet the requirements of the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

A Certificate of Confidentiality does not prevent you or a member of your family from voluntarily releasing information about yourself or your involvement in this research. If an insurer, employer, or other person or institution obtains your written consent to receive research information, the researchers may not use the Certificate to withhold that information.

Dear Dr Green

Re: International Strategy Meeting to Progress Large-Scale Human Genome Sequencing, 25th - 28th February 1996

I am writing further to Dr Morgan's E.mail of 21st December 1995 inviting you to attend a closed International Strategy Meeting on Human Genome Sequencing to be held at the Hamilton Princess Hotel, Bermuda from Sunday 25th February - Wednesday 28th February 1996.

As you know, the aim of the meeting is to facilitate the co-ordination of research groups involved in large-scale human genome mapping and sequencing. The meeting will include discussion about different strategies, potential mechanisms for co-ordination, new technologies, informatics and data release policies.

A skeleton programme and provisional participants list is attached and delegates will be contacted again in the near future as to their exact role. However, it is anticipated that most delegates will play an active part in the proceedings.

The Wellcome Trust will meet the cost of your accommodation and subsistence for the duration of the meeting.

It is envisaged that participants will be able to meet their own travel expenses, but please contact me if this causes any great difficulty. The Trust has negotiated special rates with American Airlines and if you wish to avail yourself of these discounted fares please contact American Airlines on their 0800-433-1790 number or ask your travel agent to book it quoting star field number S7826MK.

The Wellcome Trust is a registered charity, no. 210183

Trustee: The Wellcome Trust Limited • Registered in England, No. 2711000 • Registered Office, 183 Euston Road, London NW1 2BE

Board of Governors: Sir Roger Gibbs (Chairman), Julian Jack, BM, PhD, (Deputy Chairman), Sir Peter Cazalet, Professor Sir David Weatherall, MD, FRCP, FRS,

Professor Roy Anderson, FRS, Professor Christopher Edwards, MD, FRCP, FRCPEd, FRSEd, Professor Sir John Gurdon, DPhil, FRS, Sir David Cooksey, Bridget M Ogilvie, ScD, FIBiol, FRCPath (Secretary)

-2-

The programme is scheduled to commence at 1800 on Sunday evening and the Trust would be willing to meet the cost of accommodation on the previous night if flights preclude arrival on Sunday. The meeting will conclude on Tuesday evening and delegates should plan to depart on Wednesday 28th.

To facilitate the administration of the meeting, I should be most grateful if you could complete the attached registration form and return it to me as soon as possible.

Should you have any enquiries relating to the scientific content of the meeting, please contact Dr Barbara Skene or Dr Michael Morgan on 0171-611-8232 or 0171-611-8432. Any other administrative queries should be addressed to me.

We look forward to your participation in this meeting.

Yours sincerely
